

One Sheet – STRING THEORY

String Theory delivers a live experience that is equal parts intimacy and intensity. Eric Harper and Doug Towle take the stage armed with nothing but acoustic guitars and voices yet fill a room with a sound far bigger than the sum of its parts. Expect lightning-fast Flamenco runs trading off against deep rhythmic grooves, vocal harmonies that catch you off guard, and a duo dynamic that keeps audiences leaning forward from the first note to the last. It is the kind of show that makes you forget to check your phone.

The Guitarists:

Having achieved impeccable musicianship and craft during his European conservatory training, Eric Harper took on the new challenge of studying film scoring at Berklee School of Music. By the time of his graduation, Eric had found his full stride as composer-singer-songwriter, with a style that evokes a mad but moving medley of The Dave Matthews Band, The Gipsy Kings and music a la Cirque du Soleil. Eric's performance melds a bravura virtuosity with hilarity and heart-felt storytelling from his times living, learning, and loving deeply in multiple countries and cultures. As anyone who has seen Eric perform, can attest, there will be a lot of laughs, tears, and dancing.

Award winning Latin guitarist Doug Towle combines Salsa, Jazz, Flamenco, and Pop to create an utterly unique musical experience. Doug is one of Canada's premier guitarists. He has performed across North America in such prestigious events as Guitar Player Live in San Francisco, the Vancouver International Jazz Festival, The Zihuatanejo Guitar Festival in Mexico, several appearances at the Juan De Fuca Festival and the Harmony Arts Festival among countless other festival and club stages. In 2009 Guitar Player Magazine selected Doug from among thousands of hopefuls as a top ten finalist in their Guitar Superstar Competition, solidifying his reputation as one of the top players not only in Canada, but globally.
